

American Association of Directors of Psychiatric Residency Training

Biosketch

Ashley Walker

AADPRT Position: Neuroscience Education Committee Chair

Dr. Ashley Walker is an Associate Professor and the Psychiatry Residency Training Director at the University of Oklahoma School of Community Medicine. She completed undergraduate education at Rice University, medical school at UT Southwestern, and psychiatric training at the University of Oklahoma School of Community Medicine, before joining the faculty there. Her professional interests include physician well-being, treatment of severe mental illness, and decreasing mental health stigma. She is actively involved with the National Neuroscience Curriculum Initiative, which is dedicated to developing and disseminating shared resources for training mental health professionals to integrate a modern neuroscience perspective into every facet of their work.

