

University of Nevada Reno

It is a wonderful time to be in Psychiatry, especially at the University of Nevada Reno (UNR) School of Medicine as UNR reimagines healthcare and physician practice to improve the health and wellbeing of the community. The Psychiatry Department and Residency are essential components of this initiative with residents being core members of the team. The training program is looking for residents who are enthusiastic, motivated with self-initiative who are passionate about psychiatry, represent the community and prioritize improving the mental health for all. Our program offers a range of activities associated with a diverse set of clinical institutions that provides a challenging, comprehensive and stimulating educational experience. There is a strong emphasis on prevention, early intervention, community-based experiences, outpatient work and comprehensive care. The region offers the opportunity to work with urban, suburban and rural populations within the same region.
