

AADPRT Contributor Privacy Policy

AADPRT will not sell or trade our contributors' personal or contact information with anyone else. We will not send mailings to donors on behalf of other organizations. We use partners to provide online payment processing services. The privacy policies of these organizations will be presented to you on their respective websites and typically also as part of your contribution process.

We will acknowledge contributors by name in communication about our educational programs (unless the contribution is specified as anonymous).
