The American Academy of Psychodynamic Psychiatry and Psychoanalysis

Victor J. Teichner Award

The American Academy of Psychodynamic Psychiatry and Psychoanalysis (AAPDPP) and AADPRT are pleased and proud to announce the 16th cycle of the Victor J. Teichner Award, developed to promote and improve the teaching of psychodynamic principles to trainees in Psychiatry.

Criteria for a program's attaining the award include: lack of local resources to assist the program in the area of psychodynamic education (e.g. lack of onsite faculty, lack of proximity to a Psychoanalytic Institute); enthusiasm on the part of the program and its leadership to incorporate psychodynamically oriented educational proposals into the curriculum; and clearly defined training needs, goals and objectives. We are especially interested in learning about efforts your program has made to date to include psychodynamic principles in psychotherapy training.

We invite the Training Directors of AADPRT to apply for this award. It is made annually on the basis of an application to the Award Committee, composed of three representatives from AAPDPP and three from AADPRT. The Program Award is a three-day visit from a Visiting Scholar chosen from a list maintained by the AAPDPP from among its members. The choice of Visiting Scholar and the structure of the visit are made by the Program, while the costs for the visit are born by the Teichner program. Both the Program and the Scholar will be recognized at the Annual Meetings of the AAPDPP and AADPRT.

Victor J. Teichner was an innovative psychoanalyst, educator, public sector psychiatrist, and Past-President of the AAPDPP before his death in 1983 at age 56. A grateful patient of Dr. Teichner's made the initial endowment in the hope that Dr. Teichner's creative psychodynamic approach might be part of the learning of the next generation of psychiatric clinicians, scholars, and educators.
