Robert (Brett) Lloyd, MD, PhD

AADPRT Position: Chair, Curriculum Committee

My primary clinical interests involve the diagnosis and treatment of patients with psychiatric conditions and other medical comorbidities. Specifically, I am interested in the interface between physical medicine and rehabilitation and psychiatry. I am currently involved with a group of researchers at Northwestern evaluating factors that influence the development and maintenance of chronic pelvic pain. I am also interested in improving methods related to medical education with a focus on technology in the classroom.
