

Vidant Medical Center/East Carolina University

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine is part of the Brody School of Medicine at East Carolina University. East Carolina University is a large and modern institution of higher learning located in Greenville, North Carolina. The Brody School of Medicine has as its primary teaching site Vidant Medical Center, a state-of-the-art tertiary medical care facility and a part of the Vidant Health System of Eastern Carolina.

Our residency program provides opportunities to train in a variety of training sites throughout eastern North Carolina. The patient population is socially, economically and racially diverse and is drawn from Pitt County and the surrounding 33 counties. Residents have opportunities to develop specialized skills for the practice of rural psychiatry and are exposed to telemedicine as one way of expanding a service delivery system.

Competitive salary and benefits are provided for our residents. Because we are a small program, we know our residents as individuals with unique training needs and interests. We maintain flexibility to tailor the program to meet those needs while insuring that our graduates gain competence to begin their challenging and rewarding careers in psychiatry and behavioral medicine.

A combined Psychiatry/Internal Medicine program is available for physicians seeking such specialized training and dual board certification.
