

A Psychiatry Residency from the Central Michigan University (CMU) College of Medicine prepares graduates from medical schools across the country for a broad range of fulfilling careers. The residency program is strengthened by world-class faculty, robust teaching, research and publication opportunities, state-of-the-art facilities, and diverse practicum environments. It is based in Michigan's Great Lakes Bay Region, which includes major hospitals, a Veterans Administration Medical Center, a freestanding psychiatric hospital, private practice settings, Federally Qualified Health Centers, and a large and progressive Community Mental Health center.

The CMU College of Medicine is dedicated to preparing residents to be leaders in the field of psychiatry, without socioeconomic or geographic limitation of any kind. It is anticipated that many residents will share the College's idealism, becoming partners in reaching out to groups that most need their knowledge, skill, and compassion.
