

New York Medical College at Saint Joseph's Medical Center Psychiatry Residency

The NYMC at Saint Joseph's Psychiatry Residency program is a recently accredited program located in Westchester County, NY. We will be welcoming our second class of PGY-1s in July 2024. Saint Joseph's Medical Center, with its St. Vincent's Hospital Westchester division, is recognized as a major provider of quality psychiatric services in Westchester County.

Our program combines the best clinical learning opportunities of our two campuses. The Saint Joseph's campus, located in the city of Yonkers, is a modern community hospital committed to caring for our vibrant and culturally diverse community. The St. Vincent's campus, located in beautiful suburban Harrison, is a behavioral health facility which specializes in providing a broad array of services to patients with complex needs. At both our campuses, we pride ourselves in our clinical excellence, collaborative atmosphere, and the friendliness of our staff and faculty. We have 182 inpatient beds, including specialized geriatric, adolescent, addiction rehabilitation, and intermediate care units. We treat over 4,000 patients in our outpatient mental health programs and over 500 patients in our outpatient substance use disorder programs. Residents will become skilled in multiple treatment modalities and will also have the opportunity to participate in several innovative and new programs focused on crisis management and prevention. There are ample opportunities for electives in one of our many inpatient and outpatient programs. Residents also have access to and benefit from the academic resources of New York Medical College.

We believe that our clinical excellence, commitment to our mission of serving the underserved, support from an academic medical center, and enthusiastic faculty provide an exceptional educational opportunity for our residents.
