

Baylor Child and Adolescent Psychiatry Fellowship

Located in the heart of Houston, a cultural and academic powerhouse, the child and adolescent psychiatry fellowship accepts 8 new fellows per year into the program. We have over 20 faculty across 7 affiliate organizations within the Houston youth and family mental health community. We have a strong emphasis on engaging in psychotherapy (psychodynamic, mentalization-based trainings with master clinicians, along with training in cognitive-behavioral, family/systems and short-term therapies), treatment modalities across the continuum of care from primary care consultations in collaborative care, community mental health through to highly specialized care for youth with complex medical-psychiatric and psychiatric conditions (child inpatient, adolescent inpatient both acute and intermediate length of stays, eating disorders and consultative liaison services in the number one pediatric hospital in the United States). Houston is a growing city, with numerous opportunities for post-training for employment. We are a diverse city, a diverse program and welcome everyone to join our Baylor College of Medicine family. Come on down y'all.
