

Vanderbilt

The Vanderbilt University Child and Adolescent Psychiatry Fellowship Training Program, based at the Vanderbilt University Medical Center, is a dynamic and enriching program specializing in advancing expertise in hospital-based and acute psychiatry. Our fellows benefit from immersive clinical training across renowned facilities, including the Vanderbilt Psychiatric Hospital and Monroe Carell Jr. Children's Hospital. Additionally, our unique collaboration with Metro Nashville Public Schools provides invaluable school-based placements. Explore our program to discover unparalleled opportunities in clinical practice, academic development, and cutting-edge research in child and adolescent psychiatry. Choose from the following areas for more detailed information about our fellowship training program.