Coffee Klatch Communications is bringing people, producers, roasters, baristas, and consumers together through the art of coffee. While a single-origin approach works great for your online sales, markets, and trade shows, the coffee market demands will have your marketing strategy shifting gears toward offering a couple of blends. The desire for good-quality coffee (that's SUSTAINABLE) continues to grow globally. This is great news for roasters, but increased competition and meeting ethical standards will require brands to dare to be different. So how will you be different? Where will your target market come from? And how will you persuade customers to buy from YOU? Start brewing ideas about your USP and other marketing strategies with the Coffee Klatch crew!
