

Loma Linda University Health- Psychiatry Residency Program

Loma Linda Department of Psychiatry offers a fully accredited 4-year general psychiatry program with a total of 32 resident positions. Our mission is to train compassionate, committed psychiatrists in both pharmacologic and psychotherapeutic interventions to address the needs of the whole range of psychiatric conditions across the entire spectrum of patient age and socioeconomic backgrounds. In keeping with the mission of Loma Linda University Health “To make man whole”, we are especially invested in culturally sensitive and congruent care that respects and addresses the physical, emotional, interpersonal, cultural, and spiritual needs of our patients. Our vision is to create a training environment of upmost professionalism and excellence with faculty and residents who care for one another on an individual level and are committed to supporting each other in maximizing their potential as psychiatrists and as human beings. For those of you that are seeking a position for psychiatry residency training, thank you for your interest in our program. You are stepping into an exciting and rewarding field!
